Aspect PatternsIntroduction to Aspect Patterns

Astrology describes the complex personality pattern inside each of us that makes us an individual. Some charts have many aspect patterns, others few. Some lives feature much change, others follow a steady course. Your chart features 3 aspect patterns. The fewer the patterns that you have, the closer these descriptions should fit you. This report will try to interpret the tightest, most dominant patterns first. Pattern analysis is important for understanding your special path, but there are other planetary aspects in your chart that are not part of these large patterns - these are delineated in your complete natal report. There is an almost infinite variety of planetary arrangements that are possible - the moment of your birth picked one of the possibilities. All humans feel the patterns formed by the planets at our birth, but the manner and extent to which we are able to express those patterns depends on a combination of circumstances and free will. If you are reading this, then your brain is past the stage where it is dominated purely by instinct - a part of you is sensitive to the planetary dynamics in the astral body that was created at your birth. Perhaps seen from the viewpoint of worldly values, some charts may appear to be more fortunate than other charts, but seen spiritually we each have a chart that gives us the opportunity to learn valuable lessons. The external life occupies the ego's attention while the universe teaches the spirit what it needs to learn. You have the opportunity to channel the life energies of the planets in the course of creating and experiencing the joys, rewards, sorrows, and frustrations of being alive. You experience those energies according to the unique configuration frozen in your natal chart, but you always have free will.

AstroDeluxe Chart Interpretation for Casey AbramsGrand Water Trine, tight

This chart features a tight version of a powerful aspect pattern known as a Grand Trine. In this chart, there are mutual trine aspects between Chiron, Pluto, and Venus, in all three Water signs. You have an uplifting, soothing personality. You like to make people smile and laugh. You enjoy life and don't believe in rocking the boat. While you feel deeply, you don't get resentful or bitter. You will work long and hard without complaint. The combination of planets in Water signs makes you shy, sensitive, and compassionate. You would be a hands-on kind of parent. Venus makes you personable and eager to please. You are effective at bringing people together. You might consider a career in labor relations. You know the value and strength of friendships. Pluto can cause big changes to happen in your life. You can tap into toughness and power. You are able to endure a lot. Pluto adds range and depth to your mind. You tend to be secretive, but you could also be influential and have a lot of friends. You're pretty cool. Chiron opens you up to input from the higher mind. You have innate, instinctual ability. You may be a step ahead of those around you. You are willing to make the personal sacrifices needed to pursue a goal when your inner guide tells you that you can make it work. Through injury, Chiron could turn your life in a valuable new direction. You search for new challenges to keep your life interesting. You feel compassion for the wounded and victimized. During your life you could teach tolerance and sharing. At least in the areas represented by the planets of this pattern, you are not held back by fear or by negative thinking. If you don't succeed at first, you will keep trying. You are popular and benefit through your many friendships. You have a talent for connecting people to you. Emotionally you tend to be self-contained and self-sufficient - it is your party - which others are free to join. It will help your objectivity if other planets aspect this pattern's planets, as this pattern can be kind of a closed loop in which your sensitive emotions recycle endlessly.

Yod

This chart features a frequent aspect pattern known as the Yod, otherwise known as the Finger of God. At least two planets that are in favorable 60-degree sextile aspect to each other, Mars and Jupiter, form difficult but energizing 150-degree inconjunct aspects to at least one focal planet, Uranus and Neptune. The sextile aspect between Mars and Jupiter tends to define your personality, but how you express yourself in the world is shown by Uranus and Neptune and any planets that conjoin or aspect Uranus and Neptune. Mars adds an element of daring, reckless behavior. Jupiter gives you strong ethics and an inclination to help the less fortunate. You succeed by throwing yourself wholeheartedly into what you do. The inconjunct aspects increase your drive, giving you a powerful longing for a goal that you cannot clearly see. The Yod pattern combines planets from three different sign modalities - Cardinal, Fixed, and Mutable. You desire to act, but action does not come easily. After a long process of personal development, however, your thinking will become more effective. The Yod is called the Finger of God because the nature, sign, and house placement of the focus planet indicates your mission in life, especially if the pattern is tight (the sign degree numbers are close for the planets in the three signs). Refer to the house and sign placement interpretations for Uranus and Neptune.

With Uranus as a Yod pattern focus planet, people enjoy your refreshing personality. Your philosophy is to live and let live. You are not a stifling or boring person. You are complex, interesting, and resistant to easy categorizing. If your remarkable life ever does become boring to you, you will do what is necessary to keep it exciting. You have persistence and can stay with a job for a long time; you manage to keep a fresh mental attitude by having different activities in your life. You are innovative and keep up with new technology. You would enjoy a free-form career that rewards inspiration, one that lets you 'wing' it. You don't like small-minded bureaucrats administering rules - you are a rule-breaker, an iconoclast, and a satirist. Your biggest danger is the arrogance of pure reason, as seen in arrogant technocrats. Your advanced ideas are not always well-grounded and this pattern does not tend to produce careful scientists. But if you have the humility to involve others and accept their help, then you are much less likely to make mistakes. There might be good reasons for the traditional ways of doing things.

AstroDeluxe Chart Interpretation for Casey Abrams

With Neptune as a Yod pattern focus planet, you have a gift for persuasive expression. You could be a poet. You are selective in your interests. You may not have been the best student in school. You can appear preoccupied and aloof from the crowd. You do not covet power and will not be part of a scramble for it. Your career may start with you criticizing, protesting, or reacting against the established way of doing things. You could be an influential theorist or spokesperson for a new method or style. You have the insight and perspective to give others good advice. You have a big heart and could devote yourself to helping the sick or needy. There is a gentility about you that causes others to like and sympathize with you. If your career stalls, it would be because you neglect it through becoming too self-indulgent. You could have a private life in which you enjoy partying, especially if Venus or Mars is part of the pattern.

Kite

This chart features the aspect pattern known as the Kite, which is a special case of the more common Grand Trine aspect pattern. At least two planets in favorable trine aspect to each other, Pluto and Venus, form favorable trine aspects to at least one focal planet, Chiron, as with the Grand Trine, but in the case of this Kite pattern, there is at least one reaction planet, Neptune, which lies midway between Pluto and Venus and opposes the Kite's focal planet, Chiron, so that Neptune receives back through the opposition the energy directed at Chiron. The pattern gives your life a focus and mission. This pattern centers you, making you flexible and quick to react.

With Chiron the wounded healer as a Kite pattern focus body, health will be an issue in your life. You may work to overcome barriers imposed by sickness, ignorance, prejudice, or poverty. The way in which this comes out depends on the other planets in the pattern. As a body past the orbit of Saturn, Chiron opens you up to input from the higher mind. You may be a step ahead of those around you. You search for new challenges to keep your life interesting. You feel protective and compassionate towards the wounded and victimized.

With Neptune as a reaction planet, you are a dreamer with an active imagination and a gift for persuasive expression. Neptune puts you in touch with higher feelings and goals that are larger than yourself. You can make a difference in other people's lives.

AstroIDeluxe Chart Interpretation for Casey Abrams

You have gifts for poetry and advertising. You could have a photographic memory. You may not have been the best student in school because you are selective in your interests. You can appear preoccupied and aloof from the crowd. You find new ways of doing things. You could be an influential theorist or spokesperson for a new method or style. Although participation by Jupiter, Saturn, or Mars can counteract this somewhat, you are not at home in the material world enough to reach the top. You have the insight and perspective to give others good advice. You have a big heart and could devote yourself to helping the sick or needy. There is a gentility about you that causes others to like and sympathize with you. If your career stalls, it would be because you neglect it through becoming too self-indulgent. You could have a turbulent private life in which you enjoy partying, especially if Venus or Mars is part of the pattern.
